a) STEVEN JAMES MARONEY He was buried at London Cemetery, Kanawha Co., WV on Mar. 31, 1958. I attended his funeral. He was my Grandfather and he was a tall thin man who liked to laugh. he had the most extrodinary white hair! He loved to drink whiskey, upholding the old 'Drink like an Irishman' theory! The last part of his years he fixed himself a room next to the bathroom, as it was easier for him to get to it but he jokingly called this his 'dog house'. Now I am older I often wonder if it really was a joke as their bedroom was closer to that bathroom. Any way I have fond memories of running to him and picking the flowers off the wall and handing them to him (imaginary of couse) till I fell asleep, cradled in his arms! and Indiana work. He was an excellent German scholar, and worked principally among the German people, preaching to them in their native tongue. His earnest aim was to assist his fellowmen. He had a high ideal of manhood, and lived up to it in every respect. He was united in matrimonial bonds with Angeline Boyer, a daughter of Henry Boyer, after whom the village of Boyertown was named, and a member of one of the oldest and best known families of Berks county. The following children were born to them: Sarah Rebecca; William H.; Calvin M., who is a civil engineer in the employ of his brother; and Adelaide, the wife of Edwin Chamberlain of Reading.

William H. Dechant received his education in the public schools of Western Pennsylvania and in Philadelphia, after which he entered the employ of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad as a messenger boy. He then learned telegraphy, and was an operator County Sabbath School of the state organization. He is much interested in all enterprises having for their object the elevation of the social and moral standing of the community. He is also a member of the board of managers of the Y. M. C. A. of Reading.

HOWARD IRVIN EILER, architect, of Reading, is a descendant of one of the city's old and respected families. His great-great-grandfather was a member of the Hessian army sent here during the Revolution to fight the colonists, and like many of his comrades, remained in this country after learning the true cause of the struggle. Mr. Eiler's great-grandfather was born in Reading, and there spent his life, as has also Peter L. Eiler, his grandfather, who is now living there, retired from his extensive manufacturing interests, at the age of seventy-five years. Peter Eiler was born in Reading, where he has spent his entire life.

William H. Eiler, father of Howard I., died in Reading in 1899, aged forty-eight years. He was twice married, his first wife bearing him two children: Amelia, who died in infancy; and Howard I. To his second marriage four children were born: one who died in infancy; Emery, at home; Luther, in high school; and Horace, at school.

Howard I. Eiler was born in Reading May 11, 1881. He received his education in the public schools of Reading, and left school to study architecture in the office of Mr. Abner A. Ritcher. He now has charge of Mr. Ritcher's office in the Colonial Building, Reading, the main office being in Lebanon. Here Mr. Eiler attends to all of the business, and superintends all of the building.

Mr. Eiler was married Jan. 28, 1904, to Miss Ida Hoyt Stephens, daughter of Albert Stephens, and they belong to Grace Lutheran Church, he being financial secretary of the primary Sunday school. In politics he is a Republican.

Mrs. Eiler's grandmother on the maternal side, Emma Louisa Breneiser, is still living. Her father owned a saddlery and was a pioneer of Berks county. The Breneisers located in Berks county prior to the Revolutionary war, some of them taking up arms in that struggle.

CHARLES THEODORE DELLINGER, secretary and treasurer of the Nolan Real Estate and Insurance Agency, Reading, was born July 22, 1878, near Downsville, Washington county, Md., son of Andrew Rentch and Susan J. (Hoffeditz) Dellinger, the latter a daughter of the Rev. Theodore C. W. Hoffeditz.

After receiving a common school education Mr. Dellinger entered the employ of T. J. Fahrney as clerk, and after several years became manager of the general store, serving in that capacity until 1899, when the business was sold. Later he was identified with the firm of William Updegraff & Son, in Hagerstown, Md., and continued with that firm until he came to Reading in 1902 to accept a position with Mengel & Mengel, real estate brokers at No. 60 South Sixth street. He continued with this firm until 1907, when he entered the firm of Christ & Dellinger, builders, and erected a handsome row of houses on the west side of North Front street, between Windsor and Spring streets. About the time of their completion he entered the well known firm, Nolan Real Estate & Insurance Agency, purchasing an equal interest with Edward C. Nolan (vice president of the First Nation-collecting agent for the college. Ill health compelled his retirement from the ministry, and he removed to Mercersburg. He taught for some years, and he died near there Feb. 3, 1859. On Nov. 10, 1842, he married Louisa Hoke, of Mercersburg, born March 18, 1820, died Oct. 16, 1884. Their children were: John Calvin, born Nov. 15, 1843, in Hamilton township, Monroe county; Susan Julia, born Oct. 7, 1845, in Mercersburg; Adam Hoke, born Nov. 17, 1847, near Mercersburg; Charles Theodore, born Sept. 11, 1849, near Mercersburg; Louis William, born Nov. 29, 1851, near Mercersburg; and Albert Augustus Rauch, born Sept. 15, 1854, near Mercersburg,—all now deceased except Adam H. and Albert A. R.

Susan Julia Hoffeditz, daughter of Rev. Theodore C. W., was married Dec. 28, 1875, to Andrew Rentch Dellinger. She died near Downsville, Washington county, Md., Feb. 5, 1894.

CHARLES M. HUBER, justice of the peace of Wyomissing, Pa., and a popular and influential citizen of the borough, was born June 1, 1874, at Niantic, Montgomery county, Pa., son of John B. and Leah (Muthart) Huber.

Henry Huber, grandfather of Charles M., was a lifelong farmer of Niantic, Montgomery county, where he owned a tract of 100 acres, on which he erected the old Huber (Hoover) homestead. He married Mary Bolten, of Montgomery county, and they had these children: David; Jacob; Henry; John; Amanda; Mary, and Elizabeth.

John B. Huber, father of Charles M., was born at Niantic, in October, 1850, and is now a resident of Sheridan, Pa., having been a lifelong farmer. He married Leah Muthart, daughter of Jonas and Mary (Leeser) Muthart, and they have had twelve children: Charles M.; Mary, m. Charles Deppen, of Robesonia; Edgar, who lives at Durlach, Lancaster county; Henry, who lives at Schaefferstown; James, of West Reading; Jonas and Annie, deceased; and Eva, Emma, John, George and Elwood, single at home.

Charles M. Huber attended the township schools until seventeen years of age, having come to Berks county with his parents when ten years old, and later went to the Keystone State Normal school at Kutztown for three spring terms. He left this institution when a member of the senior class and taught school three terms in Lower Heidelberg township, beginning in the fall of 1892. He gave up this profession to engage in telegraphy, which he had learned under the instruction of Operator Samuel G. Leininger of Sheridan, Pa., and became an operator for the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad, in whose employ he continued one procured. It remained in service until the arrival of the company's first steam fire-engine. The second hand-engine passed into the hands of the city and was sold to Douglass & Conard for old iron.

Here they continued to hold forth up to March 10, 1870, when they removed to the present large and commodious engine-house, whose building commenced in July, 1869, and was finished in the winter of 1870. Their first steam fire-engine arrived in June, 1863. They used it until the fall of 1866, when it was sold to the Rainbow Fire Company, of Rome, Ga. Their present steamer, which is a second-class Amoskeag, was bought for four thousand nine hundred dollars, and arrived in this city on the 10th of November, 1868.

All those who yet remain to tell the early history of the Rainbow were the youngest of the members that belonged to the company at its reorganization, in 1834. In 1867 John Printz, then the oldest member of the company, died at the age of ninety-six years.

In 1873 the company celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of their origin by a magnificent street parade, at which many companies from neighboring towns and cities participated. Among the old members of the Rainbow then living were Abraham Reinhart, Nicholas Lott, William Arnold, Philip Zieber, John Goodhart, Henry Henritze, Francis B. Shalter, John Fox, Daniel Graeff, John Fox, William Shearer, Jacob Sauerbier, Abraham Clemens, Augustus Whitman, John Zieber, John Moyer, Jacob Neihart, John Ziegler, John Goodman, Daniel Burkhart, Frank Mellen, Samuel Levan, Frederick Printz, Augustus Nagle, Peter and Jacob Maltzberger, Christian Eiler, Francis Roland, William M. ALL IN THE FAMILY

Not really, it just seems that way for this PR firm

How could Larry and Sandy Eiler afford to start a business in 1987 when they had seven children to feed and bills to pay?

Simple. They used the trunk of their car for office space.

The husband and wife duo are the force behind Eiler Communications, a public relations firm based in Ann Arbor with an additional office in the Silicon Valley. Although the company came from humble begin- ings and the family hit some ostacles along the way, the firm is ell-known in the technology mmunity and around the state.

"For years I kept telling Larry, ould you please start your own siness?'" Sandy, vice president d COO of Eiler mmunications, said. "He kept ing, 'I can't start my own busi- s. We have all these kids, and need security.'"

"Who's going to buy the food en you start your own busi- s?" Larry, president of the firm, l. "We worried about that. But e we started, I worried about for about three days, because day I told people I was starting isiness, I had a client. I got e clients right from the begin- ; because I knew people."

arry and Sandy emphasized the fact that spending too much money in the beginning is a bad move for any business. Today, as they sit in their warm, homey office with large windows, plush rugs, comfortable couches, and even a patio outside where they barbecue in the summer, they know it's a far cry from their beginnings, when they had no office at all. But in retrospect, Larry and Sandy said they know they did the smart thing.

"We had virtually started the company out of the back seat of his car," Sandy said. "We did not have office space. The whole back seat was covered with file folders."

"The trick to starting a business is pretty simple," Larry said. "Bring in more revenue than you spend."

"You do what you can afford to do," Sandy said.

"That was not really hard,"

Larry said. "When we started out, we didn't have an office like this," he said. "We had the trunk of a car, and I had half an office at the University of Michigan business school because I had done some teaching down there. The first 10 months were like that.

"Cash flow is king in a business. The times in our business when we've had a struggle is when we've lost control of cash flow," Larry said.

"You can't go out and buy beautiful office furniture without having money to cover it," Sandy explained. "When we started the business, we spent $2,700 to get office furniture. It was all used stuff."

Larry asserted that success in a new business simply means you have to have the most basic element of business: people willing to pay for the product or service.

"The first thing anyone has to remember when starting a business is that you have to have a customer," Larry said. "If somebody's not going to pay you for what you do, then you don't have a business. So the first thing we did was get two good customers."

The young firm was doing well in Ann Arbor, and Larry and Sandy said they were pleased with its success. But the couple was in for a twist when Sandy was diagnosed with breast cancer in 1989.

"For me, I would get up in the morning, get dressed for work, go to the lab and have chemotherapy, and go back to work," Sandy recalls. But she said her important role in the company and her responsibility pushed her back into the office as soon as her surgery was completed.

"I came back to work seven days after surgery. People asked me why I wanted to come back to work, and I said, 'Would you stay home in the summer with six kids and a dog?' I had a lot of responsibility with the finances, and it helped that I was needed at the business."

But Sandy said she doesn't feel like it's too much of a chore to come into work. The staff of seven people are more like family than co-workers, talking with one another and even spending time together outside of work. Sandy said having the employees over for a Friday night dinner is one of their favorite activities. What the food will be is often a topic of conversation throughout the week. Besides being smart with the business finances, Sandy said she feels the friendly, relaxed work atmosphere helps people to be at their best and contributes to the company's success

"The thing that I treasure the most about this place is the culture," she said. "I don't want people to not be able to come in and plop on the 'therapy couch' in my office and just sit there. I don't want that to ever change. I want a group of people that like each other, that can work well together. When people are happy and comfortable is when things are the most productive."

> "The thing that I treasure the most about this place is the culture. I don't want people to not be able to come in and plop on the 'therapy couch' in my office and just sit there. "

> Sandy Eiler
> Vice President and COO
> Eiler Communications

The office "therapy couch" is just an addition to the many things that make the office more like a home. Larry said many people have commented on the way the office looks like the place you go home to at night.

"Well, a lot of these people spend 10 hours a day here, so it is like your home," Larry said. "So why not make it look nice and be comfortable?"

The employees say they are proud of their office mascots, Chandler and Riley, two golden retrievers. Sometimes they come into the office and keep everyone company. The dogs add to the home-like atmosphere in the office.

"It's fun," Larry said. "Everyone's kind of pet-oriented here, so it's great."

The staff feels more like a family, Larry said, and not just because Sandy, Larry and their daughter, Jennifer Potter, all work together every day. Potter, who works in operations with Sandy, had some views on working with her parents, and said she enjoys working with family.

"There are definitely trying times," Potter says with a laugh. "But they're very easy to work with. They're open to my suggestions. They don't treat me any differently than anyone else. And I prefer it that way."

Potter said Larry and Sandy Eiler value everyone's opinions, and it's one of the reasons they have the staff's respect and a successful firm.

The relationship that Potter has with her mother and father has been strengthened by working with them, she said. "I was always afraid to share my opinions, and they've really encouraged me to open up. And especially with my dad, we have really improved our relationship."

Potter feels the great relationship the employees have with one another is a great way to make work more fun, and less like a job. "I think it's really important for people to get along and be accommodating to one another," she said. "And I've worked in places where it wasn't like that. And you really treat it like a nine to five job. But here, people go the extra mile. That's the difference."

Potter says without hesitation she is happier at Eiler Communication than she has been at any other job. "I feel like I matter," she said. "I'm just as important as anyone else. They listen to everyone's ideas. And it's not hard for my parents. They're just those kind of people."

The Eiler "family" knows where they stand on business skills, and being smart with their money. But they seem to all agree that having a job that doesn't feel like typical work makes the firm unique, and helps with its success. "Have fun, and make money," Larry said. "That's basically it."

Dear Morgan

I was on the Internet at a local library and I found this website which had info on the Oiler/Eyler family line. This seem to have more info on Johannes Gemeckls whose daughter Anna Margaretha married John Conrad Oyler/Euler 1675-1751. It appears That Johannes Gemeckls was married to Anna Boden. This info came from a mike Sutton. Perhaps you can E-mail him and see where he got his info from.

Do you have any more info from the Lawrence Oiler (1254-1841) Family line?
